

Company Overview

At a Glance

- Volusion is proud to have helped over a thousand global customers
- Volusion has been in business for seven years, roughly equivalent to 40 brick-and-mortar years
- Our corporate office is located in Simi Valley, California, with a satellite office in Austin, Texas
- Volusion is a privately held company
- In June 2005, Volusion released version 3.1, which is PCI/CISP compliant
- In January 2005, Volusion was nominated as a finalist for the CODiE Awards in the Best eCommerce Solution category
- In addition to offering our e-commerce package, Volusion also provides clients with web design services, search engine optimization, merchant accounts and 24-hour customer service

About Volusion

Volusion, Inc. is dedicated to helping our clients build profitable online businesses. We take pride in our ability to power the software behind successful Internet companies and provide unparalleled customer service every day.

Since 1999 Volusion has been offering e-commerce software, website services and advanced online solutions to large and small businesses, giving our clients easy-to-use tools for building and expanding their online businesses. We offer a broad array of essential business and marketing functions in one customizable package, enabling our clients to increase their rankings across all search engines and improve overall sales. Unlike our competitors, Volusion's e-commerce solutions are available at one low price and do not include additional charges based on sales percentages.

Our clients have provided us with amazing feedback over the years, helping us really understand how our product can best meet their needs. Although many online companies have similar software requirements, each company's platform is different. At Volusion, we realize the importance of adapting to differing needs, which is why we designed our software to be completely flexible, enabling you to meet the requirements of your unique business model.

While other hosting companies and solutions providers have struggled through the dot-com implosion, Volusion has continued to prosper and grow. Our strong business model, experienced leadership, top-notch staff and innovative technology has enabled Volusion to flourish in this uncertain marketplace.

With offices in Simi Valley, CA and Austin, TX, Volusion can be reached online at www.volusion.com